A village by the sea

Thurlestone is one of Devon's most famous coastal villages and Thurlestone Beach is just on the edge of its historic centre, close to the picturesque old stone and thatched buildings, the church, a traditional inn, post office and the famous hotel and restaurant.

There are many other beaches to explore along this beautiful coastline, and local waters are generally sheltered and safe so families can play and relax.

The local

You'll find a warm welcome at the local inn.

It has great character; the people are friendly and the beer and food are fantastic.

Once you've been to Thurlestone you'll want to come back again and again!

Things within easy reach

The lovely harbour of Salcombe is also close by and is famous for its sailing and boating community. You can take a ferry from Salcombe across the estuary to the local sheltered bays and coves and have a day discovering the beautiful coastline of South Devon. Salcombe has great restaurants, pubs, galleries and boutiques to explore - something for everyone!

Hope Cove is a delightful village, which is not only nestled within a green valley but boasts two sheltered beaches. The cove was originally a fishing and crabbing village and fishing from the rocks continues to be enjoyed by many.

Dartmoor, Kingsbridge and Dartmouth are just on your doorstep and are great places to visit and explore.

The heritage coastal path runs through Thurlestone and is the gateway to hundreds of miles walking for those who enjoy rambling in this beautiful landscape.

Golf is a major part of the local scene, with the Thurlestone Hotel & Country Club's course, and a private golf club.

Other activities close to Thurlestone Beaches are available including windsurfing and surfing, horse riding, sea and course fishing, canoeing, tennis and Scuba diving are just a few, but I'm sure that once you start to explore the area you will find lots of activities to keep you and your family entertained for hours.
